

Supporting employees to get vaccinated will help protect your employees, customers and the community from COVID-19. As more people get vaccinated, it can help build confidence in the safe return to workplaces, businesses, and strengthen economic recovery.

1. Be a vaccine champion

- Lead by example and get fully vaccinated as soon as you can.
- Share why you got vaccinated or your experience getting vaccinated. People who are unsure about getting vaccinated may benefit from hearing from someone they trust.

2. Build trust

- Listen and acknowledge employee concerns.
- Ask questions and help employees understand the benefits of getting vaccinated.
- Encourage employees to speak with a health care provider.

3. Share information from credible sources

- Share and post COVID-19 vaccine information from credible and trusted sources, such as www.peterboroughpublichealth.ca/novel-coronavirus-covid-19/covid-19-vaccine-info/, covid-19.ontario.ca/covid-19-vaccines-ontario, Health Canada.
- Encourage people to speak with their health care provider if they have questions.

4. Make vaccination as easy as possible

- Post information about nearby vaccine clinics in common areas.
- Offer help booking appointments.
- Offer flexible hours to help employees to get vaccinated or time off if they are not feeling well after the vaccination.

5. Celebrate positive actions

- Some employees may be motivated by incentives or challenges.
- Thank employees for getting vaccinated to protect themselves and others.
